“Ask the NSSC” Event Draws in Large Numbers

On January 30, 2019, the NSSC held an “Ask the NSSC” event to give NASA employees an opportunity to speak with NSSC Human Resources (HR) subject matter experts about how the furlough impacts benefits, retirement, leave, and payroll. The NSSC HR panelists provided comprehensive information to 1,365 workforce participants in three sessions to highlight the actions that are currently underway to get the Agency back up and running.

The next Ask the NSSC event is tentatively scheduled for February 21, 2019 at 1:00 pm CT and will discuss Prior Pay Period Adjustments. Log in on the day of the event here.

NSSC Work Featured in Federal News Network Article

NASA recently received accolades in an article for the Federal News Network. The article, “How to (not) welcome employees back to work,” highlighted the work that our NSSC HRIS team did to keep employees as informed as possible during the partial government shutdown.

The team worked to perform dozens of updates to the Shutdown page. The updates, coming as directives from the Office of Human Capital Management, came throughout the days, evenings and weekends during the shutdown. The intention of the information was to provide employees with general information that might be needed during the lapse in government funding.

Significant supporters included: Charlie Brown, Tim Bunch, Karen Ekey, Angelique Fouquet, Patrick Frizzell, Karen Gleason, Roy Lee, Dave Leggett, Charles Lizana, Mark Solomon and Charlene Thames.
